Mid-Week Message

How do dreamboards lead to finances?

Last week, we celebrated a joyous baptism of Geoffrey Nicosia (welcome, Geoff!) and kicked off the creation of dreamboards for our church. For those who weren't with us, a dreamboard is a physical representation of our goals and vision. When we create a reminder of who God wants us to be (as individuals and as a church), studies show that we are more likely to fulfill our dreams and become the transformation that we want to see. I hope our leaders will use the dreamboards to guide their discussions about ministry priorities... and that is the connection from doodling and dreaming to our current study, sermon series and stewardship program Enough, by Adam Hamilton. Letters went out this week, so if you did not receive one, please give me a ring.

This week we will be talking about making time for wisdom and finances, as we dive into week 3 of 5 and the true heart of what God calls us to do with our resources. Please don't start making other plans for Sunday morning just yet! I understand that money and sex are the two biggest problems in most marriages, and that very few people get excited to talk about their finances. No matter how much money we have, it usually never seems to be enough. But there are new and better ways to consider money and how we spend our time and energy. So we'll examine some of the Bible's best advice (spoiler alert: SLOW DOWN!) for discovering joy through simplicity and generosity. Hope to see you there! Sunday morning, 11am...

Blessings,

A very important Trustee Meeting will be held on Saturday, October 24 at 9:00 am in Wesleyan Hall. We need to look over the bids for the roof and the siding and get the ball rolling on these repairs. Of course this also means we have to take a hard look at the budget and prioritize not only the roof and siding, but also the back drive and parking area. Please make every effort to be at this important meeting. Deb Tabor, Trustee Chair

The October 2015 Missionary Focus: Kutela Katembo

Kutela Katembo is a missionary with the General Board of Global Ministries of The United Methodist Church, serving as agriculturist at Quessua Mission in the East Angola Annual Conference. He was commissioned in late 2014.

Quessua Mission, a historical center of Methodism in Angola, was almost totally destroyed in the three decades of civil war that finally ended in 2002. The facility, which includes a church, a school, dormitories, and a farm, is still recovering. Quessua aims to produce enough food to feed its students and community. Kutela Katembo also works with the annual conference in evolving a sustainable agriculture policy that can help to overcome hunger and poverty in the region.

Kutela and family recently arrived at their new assignment at Quessua Mission. Missionary Ken Koome met them (thanks to the new truck funded by Rocky Mountain and Yellowstone Conferences) and helped them get settled in their new home.
